SHELF STABLE CHEESE

All cheese are shelf stable and do not require refrigerator. It is made by blending natural cheese with premium ingredients and cooking it to pasteurization. It has all the flavor of natural cheese with the added benefit of an extended shelf life of one year.

Processed Cheese vs. Natural Cheese

While natural cheese is appetizing, Processed Cheese is equally enticing but has a longer shelf life and added functional qualities. Processed cheese can be produced to have the added value of shelf stability that makes it great for gift baskets!

Benefits of Processed and Shelf Stable Cheese

- Shelf stable properties of processed cheese make it a great gift idea.
- Processed cheese has a longer shelf life than natural cheese.

STOCK AVAILABILITY

All products offered by SAKSCO Gourmet Basket Supplies are designated as either Year-Round or Limited Availability. The availability status of each item is indicated within the product pricing section of this catalog.

Year-Round Products: Year-Round products are generally shelf-stable items that can be replenished within a reasonable timeframe. These products are sourced primarily from U.S. and Canadian suppliers and typically have an extended shelf life. SAKSCO is committed to maintaining inventory of these products throughout the year, subject to normal supply conditions.

Limited Availability Products:

Limited Availability products include seasonal items, specialty imports, and products sourced only once per year, including selected European and Far East imports. Once inventory is depleted, these items may not be available again until the following season or calendar year. This category may also include products with shorter shelf lives or time-sensitive seasonal offerings.

Planning & Ordering Recommendations:

For customer presentations, corporate programs, printed brochures, catalogs, or other long-term marketing materials, we recommend selecting products designated as Year-Round whenever possible.

Products marked Limited Availability are typically available during the Fall and holiday season. To help secure inventory, customers are encouraged to participate in our Pre-Booking Program, available August 17–31, when orders for seasonal products can be placed in advance.

Pre-booked orders are scheduled to ship October 15–30 2026, helping you secure seasonal inventory early and prepare for the holiday selling season.

Following the pre-booking period, Limited Availability products remain available while supplies last. As quantities are limited and many seasonal items cannot be replenished, we strongly recommend ordering as early as possible to ensure the best selection and availability.

Availability is subject to inventory on hand and supplier delivery schedules.
